3 Board seats are available

There are three seats—not two, as previously reported—available on the Romulus Board of Education.

Up for re-election in the June election will be Michael D. Woods, presently the school board president, and Theresa M. Kraft. Both are completing 4-year-terms.

Voters also will be deciding on who will be filling a 2-year term held by Ken Berlinn, who was appointed by the board when Shirley Lombardi resigned.

Candidates may pick up nominating petitions from the Romulus City Clerk's Office. Filing deadline for the June 14 election is 4 p.m., April 14.

Good news

City Treasurer Beverly McAnally had some good news for the City Council Monday night. More than 90 percent of the residents of the city have paid their taxes.

"The total levy for county, city, school, sewer debts, PCHA and others came to $20,539,113.67," Mrs. McAnally told council. "and we've collected $18,844,225.85. That's 91 percent of our taxes."

"I would like to compliment the business people and citizens of this community for assuming their responsibility," Mrs. McAnally said.

She also pointed out that she was in agreement with a petition drive to freeze all assessments at the present rate for a specified period of one year while the State Legislature developed a new formula for determining property values and addressing themselves to the problems of school financing."

City, Detro near showdown

Council wants sludge officials to reveal money source

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

keep DetRo Recovery from building a proposed sludge plant in the city.

Carolyn Martin, a resident who is one of the mainstays in the battle against Detro's proposed multi-million dollar plant, appeared before council and said: "This letter shows that we are behind you."

Over 1½ years ago DetRo announced its plans to construct a plant that would turn sludge to fer-

Baumann: 'who are these people; where do they get their money from?

tizer. The composting plant originally was scheduled to be located on a 103-acre parcel, and, although DetRo received a lower court's permission to go ahead with the development, the city managed to obtain an injunction barring the construction and forcing the issue into the higher Michigan Court of Appeals.

Council was apparently pleased with the published letter and backing of the community. Councilman Barry Baumann asked Council to invite DetRo to a public meeting to reveal "Who they are," and "Where is their money coming from?"

DetRo is publishing a newsletter in the city in order to bring its point across to the people. Its latest move was to invite each person who signed the Open Letter" to a meeting.

DetRo officials contend that the city's losing more than $13,000 in taxes per day due to the delay of the facility. "That's a lot of 's-t' replied Raspberry. "Where do they get those figures from?"

Baumann opened his remarks by saying that "the Open Letter to us from all of these citizens in our community was welcomed. And, since joining council I haven't seen too much of a movement by the city to inform the citizens of the pros and cons regarding DetRo Recovery.

"I know that we are presently in litigation, but I think that we have an obligation to the citizens to inform them and keep them abreast of what is transpiring. The people who have signed that letter have been receiving letters from DetRo officials inviting them to a public meeting...I think we have an obligation to let our people know why we are fighting this project.

"We are spending a lot of money in lawyer's fees and some people say we shouldn't, but these people don't have all of the facts, therefore, I propose that we schedule a public meeting and invite the public, members of the DNR, EPA, experts on the subject from the University of Michigan and Michigan State to attend and speak.

"And we should also invite DetRo to come here and answer questions that may come up like 'Who are these (DetRo) people, and where are they getting their money from,' Baumann concluded.

Raspberry concurred and added "that I would also like to have our city attorney, our county, state and federal officials here so that we can bring this to a head," Raspberry later said:

"I'm concerned about the make-up to this sludge: Is it toxic? What elements go into it and can it cause cancer and contaminate our waters? Let these people answer and let it go on public record so that they will have to answer to each and every one of our people who gets sick."

Mayor William Oakley agreed that a public hearing would help clear the air but suggested it be held in the high school auditorium to accommodate more people.

Oakley added it wasn't wise to single out a date at present "until we contact the officials and see what they have on their schedules.

"But I feel we can do it some time during the first week of May. That will give us ample time to contact the people. Also, I believe that we will have to find an unbiased moderator because it will be difficult for council or myself to play that role."

Council unanimously approved Baumann's proposal for the meeting.

Ready for service

New Boston Huron's Police Chief Joseph Carney and township clerk Mary Lou Carey are all smiles after accepting the newest additions to the Huron Police Department - two new scout cars. The cars, purchased by the township board in December but delivered two weeks ago replace two vehicles that had to be retired because of old age. Chief Carney said he was pleased with the performance of the cars. "Believe me, we needed to get those old vehicles replaced," he said.

Council, city clerk at odds over 'minutes'

The City Clerk's office was served notice Monday night by two members of council who are demanding a more precise account of council proceedings and minutes.

City Clerk Raymond Cantrell accused the two, Barry Baumann and Jimmie Raspberry, of "nit-picking."

In a meeting switched from its regular Tuesday night to Monday, first-year councilman Baumann said that there were "several errors in the March 2 meeting" and that "the wording in the proposed cable TV ordinance was very vague in spots."

He also pointed out that the Chamber of Commerce's Businessman of the Year award appeared (in the minutes) as if the city had made the award. Baumann singled out other incidents where he felt that the city clerk had not interpreted the intent of the council.

Councilman Raspberry joined in the criticism and said that he, too, had noted that the language of the minutes kept by the clerk's office didn't reflect what was said.

Raspberry specifically was irked that the minutes didn't include his remarks concerning why he rejected the salary increases for the mayor, clerk and treasurer.

Raspberry had rejected those increases on the grounds that they (the salaries) were unjust and that the city as well as the state were in a deep recession and depression. Cantrell countered that "the confusion occurs because we don't know what is in your minds. You change your motions and thoughts readily," he said.

He went on to suggest that council members write down or fill out a form regarding their motions.

"I'm going to ask the city attorney about the legality of all of this (putting the motions down on paper)," Cantrell continued, but before he had an opportunity to expound on the subject, Raspberry fired away with: "I want to make it clear that the city attorney doesn't run this council. We pay him and that's all there is to it. We make the rules — and I want that to be clear."

Mary Ann Banks, Mayor Pro Tem, suggested that the minutes be resubmitted to the clerk's office for the needed corrections and then returned to council for approval.

Asked, since there was no citizens' input, where and how the anticipated $340,000 would be spent, Cantrell replied: "After this point, it will be up to the mayor to make recommendations and the council to approve them. However, the funds must be used for items and projects that the city usuallyearns funds for," she said.

Councilman Barry Baumann

asked Ms. Cantrell "if the city was guaranteed the amount," and she said that nothing is ever guaranteed.

"There were cuts before and there can be some again."

Mayor Pro Tem Mary Ann Banks said that "maybe the people stayed away because they didn't realize Council was to meet Monday night. (Council usually meets the first, second and fourth Tuesdays of each month, but moved this week's meeting to Monday so that city officials could attend Municipal League seminars in Lansing scheduled for later this week.)

"I really don't think there was a lack of interest on our citizens'

Board reject Bedell's proposal

2 schools get stay of execution

With a packed and stirred-up audience on hand, the Romulus School Board Tuesday night rejected a recommendation by Superintendent of Schools William Bedell to close Beverly and Mt. Pleasant Elementary Schools.

The vote to reject passed by the narrowest margins — 4 to 3 — as trustees Dan Bales, Joanne Marvicson, Richard Campbell and Michael Woods drummed up enough support, for now, to keep the school doors open.

Voting in favor of Supt. Bedell's recommendation were trustees Ken Berlinn, Theresa Kraft, and Sandra Langley.

Bales indicated that he could change his vote to yes if certain concerns of his were added to the basic resolution. Bales's concerns include the elimination of two administrative positions, two secretarial and five or six custodial positions as well as assurance that the Montessori program would remain at Cory along with their learning center.

The vote followed an emotion charged 2½ hours of debate as parents from the Beverly, Mt. Pleasant and Haiti areas made last minute pleas and threats to save their neighborhood schools.

Lovell Wooden presented a petition to the board signed by nearly three hundred neighborhood residents who fear that closing Beverly would cause emotional and physical danger to their children, would create more drop-outs and would cause a decrease in property values.

"Closing Beverly will not cause integration to happen. If people don't have it in their hearts, there will never be true integration," claimed Dorothy Phenix-Byrd who authored the petition. She also threatened that all Beverly area parents would vote "no" on the upcoming millage renewal.

"People here are speaking from their hearts. You have to use your head. Reality is here," claimed Janice Colson.

Discussion concerning the proposed closing of Haiti within three years was fierce.

"We're in hard times. I suggested closing three schools but we've picked up 61 students this past month, so I propose we close Barth and Beverly," said Campbell.

"I'm using my head, not my heart," responded Marvicson. "Haiti is zoned commercial. We could make more money closing it. We should close Haiti and Beverly, although both my children attend both of them."

School Board President Michael Woods said that he "could not go along with the recommendation. Haiti should be closed. Beverly is a residential area and the community will suffer if we close it."

A special meeting has been set for Monday, March 29. The board will meet during this week and plan to present their decision at that time.

DNR to hold public hearing tonight on landfill

Toxic waste application for Woodland Meadows heads agenda

By SUE BACHAND
(AP Staff Writer)

The dumping of toxic waste in Canton Township will be the topic of a public hearing scheduled for 7 p.m. March 24 at the Canton Township Hall.

Conducted by the Michigan State Department of Natural Resources, representatives of that governing body will hear testimony regarding the issuance of existing site status to Woodland Meadows North, a 102-acre site located within the township.

The site, located on Hannan Road south of Michigan Avenue, is divided by railroad tracks from Woodland Meadows South, a 97-acre landfill which has been the site of toxic waste dumping for some time under a state authorized permit. Existing site status would allow toxic waste dumping at the North Operation.

According to Canton Township Planner Jim Kosteva, everything but radioactive waste can now be dumped at the south-end operation. A recent decision by the Michigan Circuit Court of Appeals had dismissed a temporary injunction the waste company had received against the township.

Kosteva noted the basis for the landfill owner's permit request will be the contention that the north end site has been in operation for some time and does therefore qualify as an existing site according to the provisions of Public Act 64 which specifies regulations for waste dumping within the state.

"The DNR will hold the hearing to listen to the comments of the public, professionals, and non professionals about the site. If the determination is made, they can dump toxic waste without the regulation of a site-approval board. This board holds the ultimate responsibility for approving any new hazardous waste permits in the state.

The board in question is composed of five permanent members including representatives from the department of public health, Michigan State Police, Department of Natural Resources, a geologist and a chemical engineer. Four more members are appointed to consider each site individually, Kosteva explained.

"They insure that the site conforms to the standards and regulations set forth by the DNR for these facilities," Kosteva said.

The public hearing is being offered as one way of hearing the public and professional input on the matter of individual sites, he added.

The decision of the DNR to grant existing status will be based principally on technical evaluation of the evidence rather than public opinion," Kosteva said. "But they often consider the possibility of receiving sound, insightful technical information at public hearings from professionals or non-professionals who have done their homework. This information could raise specific questions that could warrant further investigation by the DNR."

Ford and the better idea

Congressman William D. Ford leads a discussion on the recent contract agreed to by the United Auto Workers and Ford Motor Company on March 15. On Congressman Ford's left is Peter J. Pestillo, Ford Vice President for Labor Re-

Ford sponsors aid bill to strengthen auto industry

Congressman William D. Ford (D-Taylor) said today he is sponsoring two bills to aid the ailing auto industry by strengthening the United States trade posture.

H.R. 5727 restores the President's authority under the Trade Act of 1974 to take steps to stop the benefits of trade agreements entered into under U.S. trade laws on tariff reductions or other import restrictions if it is determined that our trading partners have failed to provide equal competitive opportunity.

nities for U.S. products in their home markets. This provision was law until it expired in 1979.

H.R. 5514 also amends the Trade Act and requires that the President prepare an inventory of the nature and extent of non-tariff barriers against the export of U.S. goods; sets up a procedure for interested parties to petition the U.S. Trade Representative to hold hearings on tariff barriers which result in economic injury; requires the President to impose trade restrictions on the importation of products if the Trade Representative finds there is economic injury; and establishes a judicial review process for determinations made by the Trade Representative.

"It is essential that the United States becomes strongly competitive in the world market place," Congressman Ford said. "And the only way to do that at this time is to change our international trade laws to reflect the realities of our current import-export balance."

This legislation will be a clear signal to the Japanese that we are serious about facing up to their projected 17 million unit auto production projections," he added.

It is essential that the United States becomes strongly com-

Baumann urges city to study move for full-time assessor

Councilman Barry Baumann wants the city to consider hiring a full-time city assessor.

"It is no secret," Baumann told Council Monday night, "that our assessor doesn't reside in the city. It is also no secret that we have a part-time assessor, and I believe it is time that we hire a full-time one who lives in the confines of this city."

The part-time position is presently handled by JoLynn BeBuysscher who has served in that capacity for the past five years, but has been employed by the assessor's office for the past seven years.

Mrs. DeBuysscher said she was surprised by councilman Baumann's recommendation, then added:

"The City of Romulus found it in its best interest to hire a part-time assessor with my experience and qualifications to handle this position. I retain a Level III certification in assessment from the State of Michigan and am currently working toward obtaining a Level IV, the highest designation awarded to an assessor."

Mrs. DeBuysscher went on to say, "I have worked hard to retain certification so as to be qualified to do the best job possible and serve the city and its citizens in the capacity as assessor."

"City Charter recognizes that professional positions can't always be filled by people living within the city, therefore, it (city charter) provides for these positions to be contracted by qualified personnel regardless of their residency," Mrs. DeBuysscher concluded.

part." Mrs. Banks stressed, "I just believe the switch of meeting dates caught them off guard."

The city will receive $339,335 in Federal Revenue Sharing Funds for the fiscal year 82-83. Last year's monies went for the organization of the city's first police department — some 90 percent — and 10 percent of the monies were devoted to senior citizen projects.

WCGH to celebrate 150th anniversary

Walter J. McCarthy, Jr., the chairman of the board of Detroit Edison, Co., has been named the chairman of the anniversary committee planning celebration of the 150th year, the sesquicentennial, since founding of the Wayne County General Hospital in Westland, which was established five years before Michigan became a state of the Union.

Co-chairmen for the event are Samuel A. Turner, Chairman of the County Board of Commissioners, and Michael W. Bradley, Chairman of the County Board of Institutions that directly governs the hospital.

Also on the committee are Gov. William G. Milliken, Sec. of State Richard H. Austin, Supreme Court Chief Justice Mary S. Coleman, numerous state legislators, county commissioners, judges, and city and township officials and labor union officers.

The sesquicentennial will be celebrated throughout the year, peaking with a commemorative dance-banquet at Fairlane Manor in Dearborn on May 18. Also part of the celebration is publication of a book on the hospital history by Alvin C. Clark, retired personnel director there.

Another letter

As I write this I am filled with astonishment, dismay, and a little anger.

I am astonished that people who have taken an oath to serve their community to the best of their ability have failed so miserably in that duty. With one fell swoop, and for reasons known only to you, you have done the citizens of Romulus, not only a great disservice, but you have set us back at least two years in our efforts to bring ourselves up and out of our hitching post, cuckoo's nest environment.

I am dismayed and disappointed that after all these years, we're no better off than when we started. We're still being governed by some self serving political minds. It's too bad we can't find more Jr. Blocks in our city, he has shown from the beginning that his sole purpose in being on our City Council is to serve the people of Romulus. How many of our present council can honestly say that.

I am angry because the efforts of the Compensation Commission, whose appointment you approved, were totally in vain. All the hours of discussion, and before that, the hours of studying all the information supplied by the Michigan Municipal League, to arrive at a fair and just recommendation went for naught. You not only ignored the recommendations of the commission, you insulted every member of that commission by dismissing their efforts with about as much ceremony as it takes to flush a toilet.

I can't help wondering what the outcome would have been, had the commission recommended an increase for the members of the City Council.

Referring to the article in the Romulus Roman, dated March 10, 1982, in which Councilman Raspberry is quoted as saying, "The raises were unjust, untimely, and excessive and not in the best interests of the Citizens of Romulus". May I say in answer to that, "HOGWASH!"

I am enclosing summary sheets supporting the recommendations of the Compensation Commission, in the hope that you will reconsider your position on this matter. As you can readily see, the recommended increases are more than justified, are long overdue, and would result in salaries that still fall short of compensating for the duties of the positions in question.

Sincerely yours,
Gil White, Jr.

Romulus joins lawsuit over water rate increase

Romulus City Council Monday night joined in a area-wide lawsuit against what they say appears to be a never-ending water rate increase passed down to residents by the Detroit Metropolitan Water Board.

Upon recommendation from David Paul, Romulus' director of Public Works, the council unanimously voted to earmark $486.04 to join with the Suburban Association of Detroit Water Customers to appeal the water increase.

Councilman Jimmie Raspberry asked Mayor William Oakley how the city would finance its share of the lawsuit:

"I concur with Mr. Paul's request and I believe we should allocate these funds, but from which account will these monies be transferred?"

Mayor Oakley said the funds would be taken out of the Water & Sewer account.

Romulus' contribution to the lawsuit was figured on the basis of its population (24,302). The group applied a 2 cents assessment per resident for participating communities which totaled $486.04.

The resolution passed by council Monday night read, in part, that whereas the Detroit Metropolitan Water Board on Dec. 15, 1975 by a 4-3 vote of its members determined to raise water rates 39 percent to be effective May 1, 1976, and;

WHEREAS, the said proposed increase in water rates appears to have no reasonable relationship to costs incurred for supplying said water and may, therefore, be unjust and inequitable; and

WHEREAS, at a meeting conducted in Livonia on December 15, 1981 the representatives of some seventy communities voted to request that their respective legislative bodies pledge a contribution of two cents per capita as their pro rata share of costs that may be incurred by such legal action as may be necessary to assure that an increase in water rates shall not be implemented unless and until the aforesaid action of the Detroit Metropolitan Water Board is demonstrated to have been justified and equitable to all communities served by the water system;

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED that the City Council of the City of Romulus takes this means to indicate its support in opposition to the - water rate increase, further, since it has become necessary to litigate the issues involved, and appeal a recent judgment, the City Council does hereby pledge that it will appropriate a sum in the amount of $486.04 as this City's share of the cost of such litigation appeal.

County says 'new Federalism' won't work without funding

The new Federalism, proposed by President Ronald Reagan to return control of essential services back to the states, has the tentative support of Wayne County Commissioner John J. Korney. "Provided they send along the money to carry on the projects."

How things are named

"How Things are Named" a family program, will be held at the Nature Center of Oakwoods Metropark near Flat Rock on Sunday, March 21 at 2 p.m.

Naturalist Glenn Dent will provide a 45-minute indoor program concerning how the Indians and pioneers helped determine what we call our plants and animal life. This program will help persons learn how American plants and animals got their names.

Following this program, persons will be able to participate in a naturalist led nature hike along the trails.

This program is "free," however, advance registration is required.

For information, registration — contact the Nature Center at Oakwoods Metropark • Phone 697-9181 (Belleville)

A vehicle entry permit is required (Annual: regular - $7 or senior citizen $2 or daily - $2).

Korney said he agrees with the re-examination of the roles and responsibilities of federal, state and local governments and strongly supports the concepts of decentralization of government, in so far as possible.

"Control of governmental services should be at that level of government most capable of delivering them," he explained.

"Such realignment, however, should be based on the following elements," he added.

As an example, Korney explained, "if "Any transfer of program responsibility to the states should be accompanied by adequate funding. The federal government should not simply return program services back to state and local governing units and expect them to pick up the costs. "The Feds," he said, "should be mandated to pass on funding to those agencies responsible for developing and carrying out the various programs."

"None of the money should be side-tracked to state coffers, or reduced by the feds in an attempt to shore up their own budgetary deficits."

Area real estate agent found guilty in tax evasion

U.S. Attorney Leonard R. Gilman said today that a real estate agent, Lyman J. Craig, Jr., was sentenced in U.S. District Court on a charge of wilfully failing to file a federal income tax return for 1976.

U.S. District Court Judge Anna Diggs Taylor sentenced Craig to 90 days in prison. The judge ordered Craig to begin serving the sentence immediately, and accordingly remanded him to the custody of the U.S. Marshal.

The U.S. Attorney said that charges against Craig, age 66, were filed with the court on January 25, 1982. The information setting forth the charge stated that Craig had received gross income of $25,764 during 1976. He pleaded guilty on February 10, 1982, Gilman said. He has since been free on a $1,000 bond.

Gilman said that Craig will still be responsible for settling all outstanding tax liabilities with the Internal Revenue Service. Under existing tax law, a person convicted of criminal tax offenses, in addition to whatever sentence is imposed, is also required to pay the tax determined to be due, as well as interest and civil penalties that may be assessed, Gilman said.

During 1976, Craig was employed as a commissioned real estate agent with Snyder, Kenney & Bennett, Inc., of Birmingham. During the two subsequent years, he was treasurer of the Birmingham Bloomfield Board of Realtors.

Gilman said the case was investigated by special agents of the Criminal Investigation Division of the Internal Revenue Service, and presented before the court by Assistant U.S. Attorney Martin Reisig.

Romulus Junior High band receives top rating at district

The Romulus Jr. High School Symphonic Band received the coveted First Division Rating Saturday at District XII Jr. High School Band Festival held at the Romulus Sr. High School.

Eleven Bands, representing nine Jr.

High Schools, competed for ratings in three different classifications at the Festival. The Symphonic Band was in the Class "A" Jr. High category. Mr. Jack Pierson, President elect of the state wide Michigan School Band and

Orchestra Association, was the site chairman. The Romulus Jr. High Concert Band also performed in Class "C" Jr. High along with bands from Bedford, Milan and Clarenceville. The 113 member Concert Band received a "II" or Second Division Rating, receiving a "II" Rating from each of the four Judges at the Festival.

Director Richard Kruse was very pleased with the Concert Band's performance and noted that this is the largest band in the history of the Romulus Schools.

The Symphonic Band was grouped with bands from Redford Pierce, Riverview Seitz and Trenton Monguagon Jr. Highs. All three judges in the Concert or prepared music part of the Festival accorded the Symphonic Band First Division Ratings. A Sight Reading Rating of "II" added to the Concert Ratings gave a final "I" Rating.

The closing comment of one of the Judges was that the Jr. High Symphonic Band "is a tribute to your school and your community". Director Kruse congratulated each student in the Symphonic Band for a fine performance.

"Everyone knew that the Judging standards were high and that we would really have to play in order to receive that #1 Rating and the kids came through magnificently." Principal Nick Tottis was also very proud of the achievement of these fine students.

The Symphonic Band has voted unanimously to attend the State Festival to be held May 8th at either Fraser or Howell High thanked the Sr. High School staff Sr. High School staff for their help and cooperation in hosting the Festival, as well as his Jr. High administration and staff for their help and support. He also expressed his appreciation to Dr. Bedell and Dr.

LeCesne of the Central Office Administration, the Romulus

Community Schools Board of Education and the many dedicated band parents who helped with the Festival and who have provided the type of home environment which allows and encourages their children to be successful in instrumental music.

They're No. 1

Girl Scouts from Tyler and Haggerty Schools held a joint roller skating party at Riverside Arena in Livonia. Over 200 girls and their families enjoyed an evening of fun.

Cadette Girl Scout Troop 745, from the Haggerty Cluster are busy making plans for a four day trip to the Worlds Fair in Knoxville, Tennessee, June 19-25.

Junior Girl Scout Troop 589, from the Elwell Cluster, enjoyed a snow-filled weekend at Camp Linden, March 5-7.

Hiking and sledding kept the twenty-two girls busy outside.

Inside activities included macrame and Indian sand painting. The girls wish to thank Mr. & Mrs. Larry Vitale, Mr. & Mrs. Brownie Januszyk, and Mr. & Mrs. David Fallon for driving to and from camp.

Troop Leader, Judi Fender gives a special thanks to Mrs. Janet Woodworth, Mrs. Cordelia Blake, Mrs. Connie Gubaci, and Cadette girls Sarah Little, and Tarisa Wertz for braving the weekend with her.

Edgemont Scouts Celebrate 70 Years of Girl Scouting

The three troops from Edgemont School, (Junior 369, Brownie 254 and Brownie 255), joined together for a giant Birthday Party on Wednesday March 10th to celebrate Girl Scout Week and the 70th Birthday of Girl Scouting in the United States.

Almost 60 girls enjoyed cake, ice cream, games, party hats, balloons and decorations. A gift exchange was also part of the celebration so every scout went home with a birthday present. Happy Birthday Girl Scouts!

New church development tops Moravian District conference

Elections, new church development, concern for the elderly and social concerns are some of the issues to come before the quadrennial synod of the Moravian Church, Western District, when it convenes at the Yahara Center, Madison, Wis., March 25-28.

There will be 140 voting and advisory delegates to the synod with representation from the 41 congregations of the district which encompasses Wisconsin, Michigan, Indiana, Illinois, Minnesota and North Dakota.

There will be the election of the district president and six members of the Western District Executive Board which is charged with the administration of the district for the next four years.

The district president's election is held without nomination and all ordained clergy, who are presbyters, are eligible. The Rev. Dr. Warren A. Sautebin of Madison has served as district president for the past quadrennium and is eligible for re-election.

The remaining six members of the District Board are elected by nomination of the nominating committee from the floor of synod. Although the incumbent members of the board are all eligible for re-election, two of these have indicated they will not accept re-election.

Members of the District Board are elected from the district at large rather than as area representatives. However, the nominating committee is proposing candidates from all areas of the district.

The incumbent members of the District Board are the Rt. Rev. Wilbur Behrend, Waconia, Minn.; the Rev. Gary M. Straughan, Wisconsin Rapids, Wis.; Donald Christianson, Green Bay; Don Golden, Hope, Ind.; Thomas S. Pinney Jr., Sturgeon Bay, Wis.; and Vardis Schwager, Watertown, Wis.

Dr. Sautebin said key interest at the synod will be a focus on new church development. During the past four years a new congregation, Faith Community Church, has been organized at Canton, Mich., and new work is being established at Maple Grove, Minn., a suburb of Minneapolis.

The founding pastor of the Canton Church, the Rev. Darryl Bell moved from Michigan to Minnesota in late fall 1981, and has begun work in the Maple Grove area to organize the Christ Community Congregation.

The first worship service of the fledgling congregation was held at the Osseo Junior High School on Feb. 21 and Sunday Church school classes will begin to meet regularly starting March 28.

Concern for the elderly will be expressed in at least two proposals coming from the Lake Auburn Home for the Aged near Victoria, Minn., the district's facility for the elderly, which has been operating since 1928.

A federally funded four-story building to be called Chaska Manor is being sponsored by the church for low-income housing in Chaska, Minn., and an enlargement of the Lake Auburn facility is also being considered.

Social issues that are to come before the synod include some proposals related to peace, abortion, arms race and welfare cuts.

Attending the Western District synod from this area are Ron Erickson, Len Moneypenny and Ray Troutman, pastor of Grace Moravian Church, Westland.

Only 4.5% in Romulus ask for energy analysis

The Romulus area ranks below average in the number of homes which have requested a Home Energy Analysis, according to figures released today by Michigan Consolidated Gas Company.

A tally shows that 4.51 percent of the 7,915 eligible homes in Romulus have made such requests since June of 1981.

Syntatewide, 6.38 percent of eligible homes served by Michigan Consolidated have applied for the Home Energy Analysis.

The Home Energy Analysis is an in-depth evaluation of the energy efficiency of a residential building. For a $10 charge a trained auditor will examine more than 90 checkpoints in a typical home and then recommend energy improvements including the use of solar and wind-energy systems.

In addition, the auditor will give the customer information on the cost of installing energy-saving measures by contractors and for do-it-yourself installation, as well as an estimate of the potential energy savings for each recommended measure.

Customers also receive a conservation kit containing several easy-to-install energy-saving devices. All residential customers of Michigan's major utilities are eligible for the Home Energy Analysis.

Fly a kite?

"Kites — Make and Fly", a special spring activity, will be held at the Nature Center of Oakwoods Metropark near Flat Rock on Saturday, March 27 at 10 a.m. and 1 p.m.

Participants will construct a kite fashioned after one of several animal designs and test flying will be held upon completion.

Park Naturalist Robert Wittersheim stated that persons should bring a ball of kite string, a pair of scissors and a nominal fee will be charged for materials. Advance registration is required.

For information/registration—contact

Customers of Michigan Consolidated can call 1-800-482-8720 to arrange for a Home Energy Analysis.

MichCon is an intrastate pipeline, storage and gas distribution company serving more than one million customers.

Treasurer finds fault with proposed tax plan

By SUE BACHAND
ANP Staff Writer

While taxes are inevitable, the when and how of collecting them is causing some concern at several levels of government.

The Michigan State Senate has recently approved a measure permitting the collection of taxes twice a year — rather than the once-a-year procedure now utilized in Canton Township. Proponents of the new measure express confidence in the savings of money by a twice a year collection.

"Schools claim that, because of their fiscal and school years, the once-a-year tax collection forces them to borrow money until the revenue actually gets to them," explained Canton treasurer Maria Falkiewicz. "They claim that they could save nearly $1 million in interest alone by going to the twice a year collection."

Mrs. Falkiewicz has her reservations regarding this plan, however, er, and is a strong supporter of another course of action which could receive the legislative nod any day now. Mrs. Falkiewicz, and many others, are strongly in favor of a phase-in program of collection, would solve the problem the schools have without creating a hardship on our office and our taxpayers.

"They claim that the schools paid the one million in interest — but I'd like to see the actual net cost on

"They claim that the schools paid the one million in interest — but I'd like to see the actual net cost on that. Some of that money was invested and part of the interest recovered that way I'm sure. What was the real, true net of the figure the schools are quoting?" — Maria Falkiewicz, Canton Treasurer which would still allow for a once-a-year collection, but move the collection time back to July — thereby providing for the funds the schools presently need from September until January without borrowing money.

"It's very complicated," Mrs. Falkiewicz admitted, "and there are so many factors to look at. I sincerely believe the phase in program of a once-a-year collection that. Some of that money was invested and part of the interest recovered that way, I'm sure. What was the real, true net of the figure the schools are quoting," she asked.

Mrs. Falkiewicz believes that the phase in of the new program which would provide for a first year collection moved back to October, from the present January, then a second year collection moved back to September or August and a third year permanent move to July would alleviate the threatened expense and record keeping of the twice-a-year plan and still allow for the supply of funding to the schools when money is needed.

"Twice a year collection would actually necessitate the doubling of staff in the treasurer's office, extended computer time and would be quite costly — if revenue is split, we might not be able to invest it as it comes into the office which would be, again, quite costly. There would be no time for record maintenance in the treasurer's office — we'd run a full year collection office," Mrs. Falkiewicz cautioned.

Mrs. Falkiewicz also expressed her concern for the timing of the proposed twice a year plan, noting that taxpayers are paying so many taxes at that time of year; a twice-a-year plan would place an undue hardship on many of them. "We just can't do this to people. It's too many things all at once," she said.

The treasurer also feels that the new phase in program might in fact allow the township and schools to lower millage by permitting them to invest the funding collected and accruing income through interest on those investments. "We could use everything we get in as investment money and actually make the taxpayers' money pay part of the administration costs," she explained.

Mrs. Falkiewicz agreed that the interest costs the schools are paying on the money they are forced to borrow is a "total waste".

"But I still wonder about that $1 million figure — what's the net?

Was some of that money invested to collect 14 or 16 percent interest?

And most important, what does the twice-a-year plan mean to the taxpayer? We have to look at a lot of things here," she said.

While the schools have proposed the twice-a-year program, Mrs. Falkiewicz and the Canton Township Board of Trustees will have the final word on the provisions for collecting the revenue.

'Early warning' signs stressed

April — 'Project Find' month

April, 1982 will be a month with special meaning for area citizens who have special education needs.

April has been designated "Project Find" Month.

Project Find is a program of the State of Michigan Board of Education, Special Education Unit.

The unit's purpose is to inform Michigan citizens of the free special education programs available through local public school districts.

These programs serve persons from birth through age 25 (or graduation from high school) who suffer from one or more learning impairments, including hearing, vision, speech, mental, physical and emotional disabilities.

"One of Project Find's principal goals is to educate parents about the early warning signs of a handicap," said Sylvia A. Engelman, Michigan Project Find director. "Sometimes a handicap may be obvious, but in other cases, the symptoms are difficult to recognize. Project Find helps alert parents to a potential handicap so that action can be taken when it's most needed—at the onset of the disability."

Because of the importance of identifying handicaps in the very young, much of the organization's efforts are directed to the parents of newborn children. The project has developed an information network that provides literature, public awareness programs, seminars and workshops to explain the early warning signs of a handicap and inform parents of the appropriate course of action.

"Parents need to pay close attention to their child's development," said Engelman. "If a child has difficulty naming toys by age two or repeating rhymes by age three, a speech impairment may be indicated. If a child cannot locate and pick up objects within easy reach or has watering and encrusted eyelids, a vision impairment may be at fault."

Project Find also lists these additional warning signs: If a child has frequent ear aches, does not respond to being called from another room or does not face the source of a strange noise, a hearing problem may be the cause.

If a child does not walk by age two or cannot walk up and down stairs by age three, a physical disability may be the source of the problem. A developmental handicap may be indicated by an inability to name parts of the body by age two, not interacting with groups of children by age four or by lack of understanding simple stories at age three.

"It is very important that parents understand that they do not have to wait until their child is in school before help may be obtained," said Engelman. "Programs in our state provide assistance for children from birth through age 25. The earlier the special needs are recognized, the greater the chance to overcome the problem."

Engelman reported Project Find is also concerned about older children who may not be receiving the special education programs available to them.

"Many people do not know that services are available for persons through 25 years of age or graduation from high school. One of our most important functions," she said, "is to ensure that those eligible are aware of the opportunities in their own communities."

In all cases, the child's disability is evaluated by a group of specialists. With the help of parents, a program of education or therapy is established. If a child is an infant, qualified personnel may make regular visits to the home to work with the infant and parents. Special education services are designed to help handicapped students of any age develop to their fullest potential.

There are over 126 local and intermediate Project Find coordinators in the state of Michigan. Each carries our information programs in their area, distributing literature and conducting seminars and workshops for appropriate health and social service agencies, hospitals, service clubs and child care centers.

Project Find operates a state hotline phone number. The line operates 24 hours a day and serves as a referral source for those with questions concerning special education services. Call toll-free 1-800-572-6955 or contact the local or intermediate school district.

Doctor on Call

Rx for bumps and grinds

Editor's Note: Dr. Ernest Sorini is chief of Emergency Room Services at Annapolis Hospital in Wayne. He served his internship and residency at the University of Utah Medical Center and has been in emergency medicine for five years. If you have health questions for Dr. Sorini, contact him care of Associated Newspapers Inc., P.O. Box 578, Wayne, Michigan 48184.

By DR. ERNEST SORINI

The last time I saw American Bandstand was at a time that the dance craze was, "The Bump." In this dance, each of the participants takes a leap at the other to the beat of jungle drums and a tenor sax, and at just the right moment, they collide at the hip, derriere, or other unlikely part. After six or seven minutes of this "fun," the song ends, an ambulance carts off the casualties and the teeny-boppers ascend the dais to give the song a grade.

"I give it a seven for the beat, a six for the lyrics, and a nine for the pain," quips one bespectacled teenaged oracle. "I give it a perfect 10 because you have to be Nadia Comenici to do it without getting hurt," another smart alecky pre-law student is heard to retort.

And on and on. What we humans do to ourselves in the name of fun would probably surprise many curious onlookers from other "uncivilized" planets. If they saw, for example, 24 men, each weighing nearly as much as a riding lawn mower, clad in shoulder pads, helmets, and with nail-like spikes on their soles, line up against one another and kick, wrestle, bump, punch and smash one another for the better part of a sunny Saturday afternoon, all in the name of fun, they'd probably think that an armistice, not a score, would be the best way to settle the question of who could rightly claim victory.

But even everyday activities like walking, running and sitting can take their tolls upon the many joints of our body, especially the hips and the knees. As a matter of fact, most people who are incapacitated with the pain and immobility of knee and hip arthritis are people who for the most part have never engaged routinely in violent activities.

Nevertheless, there is help for those among you who have tried all the conservative regimens, such as aspirin, heating pads, whirlpools, and strengthening exercises, to rid yourselves of the pain and immobility of hip and knee arthritis.

Orthopedic surgeons are now able to replace these worn-out joints with stainless steel and plastic look-alikes. This requires a general anesthetic and about 2- to 3-hour operative procedure. A total of 7-10 days of post-operative hospitalization is usually required and painless walking can usually be resumed within a month after surgery.

If you think you might be a candidate for such surgery, contact your family doctor who can tell you more about the pros and cons of artificial joints. And in the meantime, "take two aspirin, and call me at my office on Monday morning."

What do a huge stuffed lion, a week's stay in a condominium in London, England, and a flight in the Washawen County Sheriff's helicopter have in common?

They're among hundreds of gifts donated by area merchants and many others to this month's St. Joe's Radio Auction on WAAM (AM 1600).

Now in its fifth year, the auction will be broadcast Saturday, March 27, 9 a.m. - 10 p.m., and Sunday, March 28, 9 a.m. - 8 p.m., from the Bechtel Power Corp. building at the corner of Eisenhower and State.

According to auction chairman Dennis Pearsall, senior vice president, National Bank and Trust Co., Ann Arbor, proceeds will help fund a "Mobile Health Promotion Unit."

Views On Dental Health

By KENNETH A. FOX, D.D.S.

ARE DENTAL X-RAYS SAFE?

Sometimes, dentists wish they had the eyes of "Superman" but we don't. So we use X-rays. The X-ray is one of the dentist's most useful diagnostic tools. Many defects of the teeth and the bone which surrounds them cannot be seen by the dentist's eye. They are only visible on X-ray film. Before you ask — let me answer — dental X-rays are safe!

Millions of X-ray films have been taken by dentists without a factual report of injury to anyone. Exposures which used to take 6 or 8 seconds are now made in a fraction of a second. Metal filters to keep back unwanted radiation are standard on all new model X-ray machines. Older machines are equipped with filters and electronic timing devices to enable them to use high-speed X-ray film for short exposure times.

The National Committee on Radiation Protection states: "There is no scientific evidence that the proper use of modern X-ray equipment for dental diagnostic purposes will be harmful to the patient."

Pizzimenti re-elected chairman

PCHA selects new officers

The 47-member Board of Directors of Peoples Community Hospital Authority (PCHA) has re-elected its four top officers to leadership positions on the Board for another year.

Returned to the position of Chairman was Donald J. Pizzimenti, a member-at-large from Allen Park, who begins his 17th year in that role.

Re-elected as vice-chairman was Patrick J. Norton, who represents the city of Wayne on the hospital board. Roger J. Remer, who had served for 16 years as representative from Flat Rock, was elected by his board colleagues to serve the two remaining years in an unexpired term as member-at-large.

Remer was also returned to the position of treasurer. Hiram McNeeley, who has represented Inkster for nearly 15 years on the PCHA Board and has been secretary for the past 13 years, was re-elected to that position.

The board officers serve one-year terms. Officers are elected each February at the annual meeting.

At the same meeting, the Board of Directors re-elected Carl W. Morris of Romulus and Harold LaVassaur of Trenton as members of the executive committee.

The 3-person executive committee, whose third member is the board chairman, has the authority to meet and make decisions, subject to later board confirmation, when the full board is unable or not scheduled to meet.

In other election business at the recent Board meeting, Justine Barns of Westland was re-elected to a 4-year term as member-at-large.

The Hospital Authority Act stipulates that 40 of the PCHA Board members will be appointed by the 24 PCHA member communities, with representation based on a population formula. Seven others are elected "at-large" from the service area by the 40 appointed members. The terms are staggered so that no more than 2 terms expire each year.

The Board had also re-elected Charles Younglove of Trenton to a member-at-large seat. Mr. Younglove's untimely death last week leaves this position vacant. Mr. Younglove had served on the PCHA

Board of Directors since 1970. The PCHA Board of Directors, composed of consumer-citizens from the member communities, makes the policy decisions by which the multi-hospital health care system is run. PCHA owns and operates five hospitals: Annapolis in Wayne, Beyer Memorial in Ypsilanti, Heritage in Taylor, Outer Drive in Lincoln Park and Seaway in Trenton.

Our opinions

DNR business should not be controversy

The Michigan State Department of Natural Resources recently displayed a lack of courtesy in failing to inform interested parties of the March 24 public hearing on the matter of toxic waste dumping at Woodland Meadows North in Canton Township.

In an advertisement published March 8 in the Detroit Free Press, the DNR suggested a public hearing would be held only if substantial public interest was demonstrated to that state body by a March 19 deadline.

Since the beginning of the controversy surrounding such toxic waste dumping, the City of Wayne has demonstrated an ongoing concern in this issue. Although the 102-acre Woodland Meadows is located in Canton Township, it does border the City of Wayne.

And as Mayor Patrick Norton stated at a recent city council session, "We want the DNR to know that we represent 21,000 people and nobody here wants it (toxic waste disposal)."

Such interest has been exhibited at all of the previous public hearings through official statements from Community Development Director John Zech and City Attorney John McKinney, who have represented the Wayne community in expressing displeasure at the prospects of toxic waste dumping at Woodland Meadows.

The City of Wayne officials have also invested $10,000 in a consultant's study of the area and has gone on record as prepared to join Canton Township in future legal action in this issue if necessary.

Yet despite this interest, the DNR failed to inform any Wayne officials of local residents that it had, in effect, scheduled the public hearing in the Canton Township Administration Building before its self imposed March 19 deadline for expressions of interest.

Unaware that the hearing had been set, a Wayne resident circulated petitions seeking a statement against the proposed dumping from nearby homeowners. Wayne officials, meanwhile, passed a resolution in opposition to waste disposal at Woodland Meadows in response to the March 8 advertisement.

Instead of publishing a statement informing the public of the public hearing, the DNR decided to simply inform Canton Township officials of the meeting. That action contradicted the DNR's published message that such a decision hinged on what transpired by March 19.

Now while this lack of communication concerning the public hearing between the DNR, Canton Township and the City of Wayne has not caused any damage, it is disturbing. Resolution of this volatile issue will not come easily — any failure to communicate among all those involved in the matter will only prolong and confuse the situation.

"Communication has not been bad so far but it could be better," one official admitted last week.

Hopefully, it will get better. The stakes for western Wayne County are too great to be lost in a scenario of crossed signals and improper notification of the decision making process.

The Hillenbrand Report

Bureaucrats and taxpayers money

By Bernard F. Hillenbrand

When the politics of the board changed, the conservatives reinforced these directives, adding one more goal: "To reduce costs, we must contract out as many county services as possible to private enterprise," Schabarum has said.

THE CONTRACTING BUSINESS

To date, maintenance of six county buildings is under contract. Employees who lost their jobs were given opportunities to work for the new contractor at reduced wages, a situation that raised hackles with Steve Cooney, general manager of the local branch of the AFL-CIO, among others.

Cooney is not convinced the county is broke. "Decisions have been made to cut services under the guise of shortfalls that are not as bad as pictured," he said. "The workforce reductions have come from the line and not from management. Seventy-five percent of those affected are minorities. The selection of classes to cut from their jobs is discriminatory—and the subject of several lawsuits," Cooney concluded.

"This type of scaling down never will be equal or credible," added

David C. Lizarraga, president of The East Los Angeles Community Union (TELCU), a Hispanic economic development corporation. "We will continue to have political input because of our size," Lizarraga continued, "but in the past the county was required to involve community groups in planning. Now their response is not being monitored. So county officials are doing what they have to do."

"We've made a lot of gains since the Watts' riots," admits Nate Holden, a black county official and former state legislator. "We have jobs, training and health care we never dreamed of in 1965. Many of the people working in the ghetto have become a part of government. But how much can you hold back when the fuel is there? When people are hungry—they get pretty hostile," he said.

Mrs. Mary Henry, leader of a community health coalition, echoes similar sentiments, alluding to hidden reserves and contracts "based on the amount companies contribute to political campaign funds."

Labor, minorities and the elderly have formed an effective coalition to block further cuts in health services... at least for the rest of the year. Their lobbying of the state legislature recently led a county staffer to tell me, "The community organizations have more influence in the state legislature than we do."

INTERGOVERNMENTAL AFFAIRS

Relations between the legislature and the county were best described by Mrs. Henry who said the community was "victim of a philosophical war between a conservative county board and liberal legislature."

Traditional animosity is fired by the perception that the supervisors hold more political clout than legislators. Indeed, some legislators return from Sacramento to campaign for county office. Yet the county has no role in preparation of the state budget, they have no formal liaison with a legislature increasingly critical of board politics, and finally, state officials use accounting methods that differ considerably from those of the county.

State and local accountants speak in foreign tongues, a situation that lead to a thorough state audit earlier this year. The state investigator found the county books to be in good order, however, and now the parties are seeking to resolve some of the confusion. But the most recent blow to state/local relations came when the social service department cut its staff by 550. "Since each social worker's caseload is measured, the only way we could reduce staff was to cut the number of functions each person performed," explained

Director Ed Tanaka. "We eliminated some paperwork and requirements mandated by state law. We are now seeking waivers to gain approval for these changes."

To define the state's power to set requirements for local government—without providing the funds to fulfill them—the California State Association of Counties recently filed a suit in federal court. A number of other state associations are considering similar actions.

"We were able to balance the budget this year because we had consistent support of board members who 'bit the bullet' when they had to make decisions on how they were going to cut. Their foresight is clearly seen by the fact that we still have the very highest rating from Standard and Poor's," Hufford noted. Now it's up to the state.

PROPOSITION 13 AND LOSS OF HOME RULE

"What proposition 13 did was to keep people from losing their homes, people who couldn't afford to pay taxes after inflation multiplied property values," he continued. "But its implementation led to loss of home rule for the county."

In 1978, major disruption of local services was prevented when the state unveiled a secret surplus of some $4 billion unexpectedly generated from sales and income tax revenue. That surplus was distributed to the locals to compensate for lost property taxes.

"In spite of protest," Hufford says, "Sacramento passed enabling legislation that earmarked state funds for specific services, resulting in a shift of control. Local programs, not state programs, have born the brunt of budget reductions." Now the state surplus is gone.

"Without independent revenue sources," Hufford says, "the state will be fully responsible for how money is spent." The state has changed the formula for local government financing three times in five years.

INFRASTRUCTURE

Federal cuts in the community development program have not affected Los Angeles County—yet. Some projects continue. Special districts, however, have suffered mightily because they were formerly financed by property taxes. They are, further-more, providing services that should be linked to home ownership: flood control, street lights, parks and sewers, water and garbage. Each now have their own user fees that are expensive to collect, ever increasing and difficult for voters to monitor for effectiveness.

Some officials say user fees have one advantage: voters know where their money is going.

Dog chase nets dinner

By TOM MOORADIAN
Managing Editor

In our business it's either famine or feast — and it's been a feast in these parts with the wealth of interesting news stories that have been breaking.

Back when I first started out, the old professor used to tell me: "If the dog bites the man — that ain't news; but man bites dog — that's it. Write it."

But have you ever heard of a man being invited to dinner because he caught the dog? Seriously. I thought Republic Airlines was only kidding when they dashed a note over to Lee Silvey's Office in Romulus.

And that note crossed this desk — a perennially disorganized spot — but let me report what happened. It seems that on March 10 of this glorious year, a dog got white-knuckled and didn't want to take the flight out of Metro Airport to California. So, like all dogs that are caged, he found a way to get out of the predicament and bolted from the hangar and — you guessed it — right on to the runway.

As airport officials scurried to warn those who needed to be warned, in comes Alan Hindman of the Romulus Animal Control Office to the rescue.

The animal-wise Hindman chased down the dog and captured the animal.

"I want you to be aware of our appreciation for his assistance in this matter," said W.F. Sherman, customer service manager for the airlines. "We would also like to take Mr. Hindman to lunch one day soon if it is permissible, and we would like to do it along with a group of other people who were helpful in this matter."

How could City Council refuse such a request? It gave it's blessing to the luncheon and also commanded him for the rescue mission.

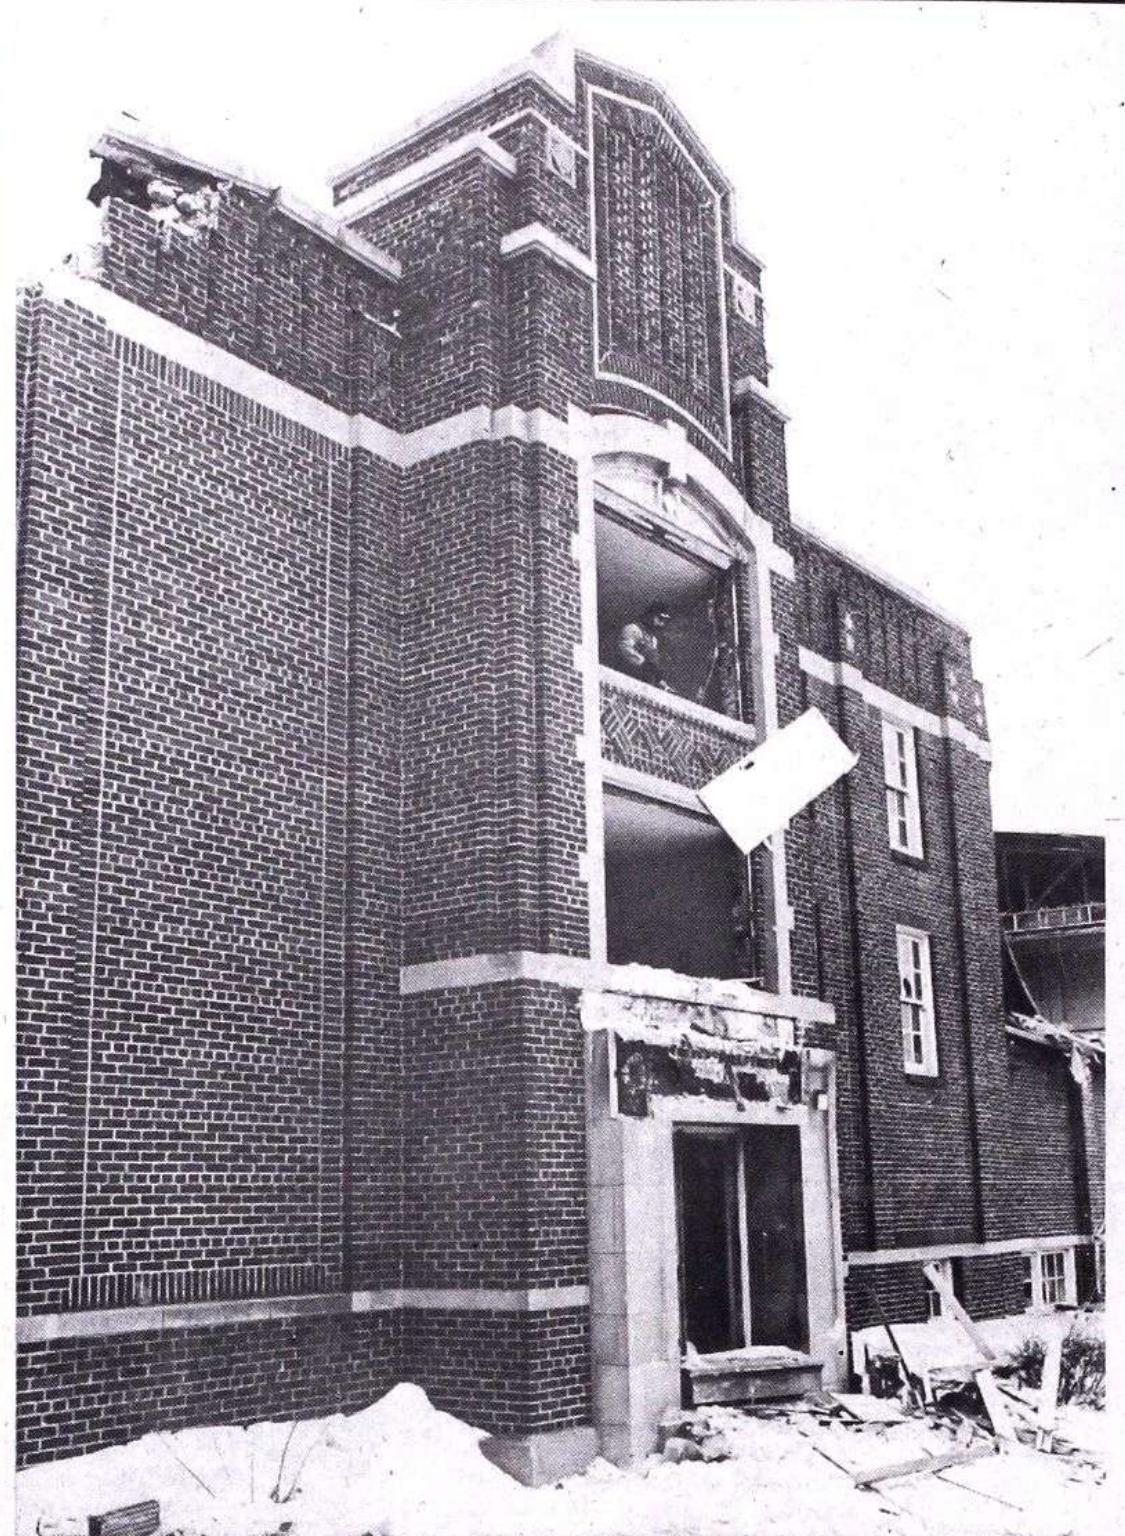

A mission that all dog and animal lovers will truly understand.

Here's reason for W-W school board recall

I would like to respond to articles that have appeared in the newspapers and again state the reason for the recall of five Wayne-Westland School board members (Don Rusnock, Mary Arbor, Mildred Batterson, Tom Barrett, Ken Marshall).

The reason for the recall is these five board members voted on the contract extension on Oct. 26, 1981 with a 7-9% raise in these economic times of concessions.

Even officials for the district and teachers union said in one newspaper (10/29/81) that the agreement was better than any that could have been reached if negotiations had been delayed until spring, the normal starting time.

Again, I would like to state this is not a vendetta against the teachers. This is a recall of five board members because of their vote on this contract.

As for a Fact Sheet that was only offered to petitioners to keep them on the right track, it was drawn up with good intentions. In fact, very few of the petitioners carried it.

Since this has upset the WWEA so bad and we have stated we are not out after the teachers, the petitioners that were using the fact sheet no longer carry it.

We have found there are many ways of computing averages and that COLA is disputable since it is not COLA as the automobile worker knows COLA.

These figures are approximate; we know we are in the right church even if we're not in the right pew. If anyone signed the petition because of the fact sheet alone and not for the reason of the vote on the contract which is stated on the petition, they should have their names removed since they should read the petition before signing just like any legal document.

T.U.T. stands for Taxpayers United Together. Standing united together we will succeed in this recall. This is our right as citizens to recall someone who we feel has not acted in the best interest of the Taxpayers.

If you want to sign or circulate petitions please contact TUT chairperson Rose Mary Miller, 595-6558.

Sign ordinance means progress

EDITOR — Fully realizing the history of the Sign Ordinance issue in Canton Township I think our Board of Trustees should be commended for their 6 to 1 vote on Tuesday, March 9, in favor of revising the current sign ordinance.

This decision indicates a progressive attitude and will certainly help our Township grow and prosper.

This decision displays the sincerity we have been hearing so much about in regards to welcoming business into the Township. As a business owner severely affected by our sick economy, I for one certainly appreciate this change.

Van Buren recall overdue

EDITOR — The time for recall of certain Board Members in Van Buren Township is more than due. The latest escapade demonstrating their decision making ability should be enough to make you pull hair from your head.

Following Fred Domen's resignation, they decided unanimously, and publicly, on a policy to follow in appointing someone to fill the vacancy. It was agreed that any interested persons should notify the board with a letter of intent by a specific date.

which of course they did. Ten applied. It was also agreed that there should be public interviews of the candidates, which of course they held. Five were interviewed. One other did not attend due to illness. Those interviewed were Ed Busch, Rick Edwards, Jim Elias, Dan O'Brien and George Roberts.

On February 23, when the board attempted to choose a successor, it became apparent they could not do so at that time and voting ceased.

On March 9, with the previously mentioned five candidates anxiously sitting in the audience, each curious as to which of them might be appointed, the board nominated, and elected (5-1) Mr. Thurston Jahr. This was done without benefit of any letter of intent, public interview, public discussion or public and formal change in the policy which they had formerly initiated and adopted.

First they ignore State required hiring practices in the hiring of Richard Debs, one of the reasons for the recall, and now they demonstrate they cannot even follow their own, self-imposed policies. How can we entrust the running of our township and the collection and spending of our taxes to such people?

Cullin, Craven, Toohey, Welty and Wojcie do not deserve the support of the residents of this township any longer.

If they can't or won't do the job within the guidelines legally set forth, they must be removed in favor of people that will. If a governmental body designs and establishes policies of record, they cannot be permitted to ignore those policies.

Yes, indeed, the time for recall is not only due, its overdue. The reasons for the recall have not changed and neither have the attitudes and actions of those being recalled.

RON YURCHAK
Chairman, Van Buren Recall
Commission

On parliamentary procedure

EDITOR — We would like to respond to the guest editorial by Gerald E. McKelvey (Belleville Enterprise, March 17, 1982).

If he is as sincere in his interest in town government, as he implies, his first lesson would be to thoroughly read the "Authority and Responsibilities of Michigan Township Officials, Boards and Commissions," written by the attorney for Michigan Townships Associations. Page nine clearly outlines the procedure for filing a vacancy of an elective office for reasons other than a recall. "Appointment by a majority of the members of the Town Board."

The "Parliamentary procedure" outlined in the Guest Editorial is not applicable to filling a vacancy on Town Boards and would constitute an "illegal action" by the Town Board.

The members of the Van Buren Town Board futilely tried to abide by the proposal set forth by the Supervisor but when the Board could not reach a decision, Board members acted in an intelligent and legal manner and by a vote of 5 to 1 appointed a qualified township resident to fill the vacant Trustee position thereby saving the taxpayers six to eight thousand dollars for a special election.

The Van Buren Township Board of Trustees is not under recall as stated in the Guest Editorial, but only the threat of recall by members of an ad hoc recall committee, which to date, has been unable to garner the required number of signatures on their recall petitions to present to the Wayne County Clerk for certification.

Recall petitions have been circulating since December 1981.

A recall election can only be called when the County Clerk painstakingly investigates the legality of all signatures on the recall petitions and verifies the authenticity of each petition circulator.

An officer sought to be recalled shall continue to perform duties of the office until the result of the recall election is certified.

A person circulating a petition, shall be a qualified and registered elector in the electoral district of the official sought to be recalled and shall attach thereto his certificate stating that he is a qualified and registered elector in the electoral district of the official to be recalled and shall state the city or the township wherein he resides and his post-office address; further, that signatures appearing upon the petition were not obtained through fraud, deceit, or misrepresentation and that he has neither caused nor permitted a person to sign the petition more than once and has no knowledge of a person signing the petition more than once; that all signatures to the petition were affixed in his presence; and that to the best of his knowledge, information, and belief, the signers of the petition are qualified and registered electors and the signatures appearing thereon are the genuine signatures of the persons of whom they purport to be. A person who knowingly makes a false statement in the certificate is guilty of a misdemeanor. (Chapter 36 — Recall Chapter, Section 951 and 957 as revised by Act 533 of P.A. 1978 immediate effect 12/21/78).

Again we painstakingly point out that the Van Buren Township Board of Trustees accepted the resignation of Richard Debs as Commander of the Van Buren Township Police Department at the January 12, 1982 meeting of the Van Buren Township Board. He is no longer an employee of Van Buren Township.

More on V-B trustee vote

EDITOR — May I please use your newspaper as a vehicle to answer the editorial written by Mr. Gerald E. McKelvey which appeared in last week's edition. I feel some points should be cleared up.

Dear Mr. McKelvey, Thank you for the excerpt from "Parliamentary Procedure at a Glance" which you gave me just prior to the board meeting of March 9, 1982.

The concept of "the single-transferable vote system" was very interesting; however, after consulting with the Township attorney, prior to the above mentioned meeting, I was advised that according to state statute this system was not applicable to filling a vacancy on the board and it would constitute an illegal action.

In order to approve any action by the Township Board, it requires a majority of the quorum present.

The procedures which I recommended by the Board for filling the vacancy and which the Board approved afforded all residents the opportunity to apply for the position.

After having followed those procedures to completion, the Board reached a stalemate; therefore, it was necessary to go beyond the original procedure to make the appointment.

Legislature's tax-minded

EDITOR — I wish to respond to the front page article entitled, "Put '81 Cap on Taxes," and particularly to the lead statement of the article, "Apparently the State Legislature hasn't received the message." The fact is that both the House and Senate are well aware of the increases in property taxes about which so many complaints are received.

Seldom does a day go by in which we aren't confronted by angry citizens regarding their property taxes.

The Governor, in a special message last September listed priorities for the fiscal year, chief among which were correction of Workers' Comp problems, property tax reduction and the Single Business Tax.

The Legislature made a number of amendments to the Workers' Compensation System and also passed and sent to the Governor House Bill 4250 which provided a substantial increase in State financed property tax rebates under the understanding the Governor would not veto the bill because of his expressed position that reduction of property taxes was a priority item.

But, the Governor vetoed that bill. It left us with the conclusion that the Governor's statement of priority was perhaps less sincere than he had implied.

Many have asked me what the Legislature is doing about property taxes and I am pleased to say that we have already taken a number of other significant steps to hold property taxes down. It is important here to remind readers that the State doesn't get a single dollar of the property tax...it is locally levied, locally collected and locally spent. But, the property tax rebates I mentioned above (this year costing more than $500,000,000) come from the State's general fund.

So long as the Governor establishes the priorities, we can only take corrective actions piecemeal. So, I would like to mention two specific piecemeal corrections we have made: The first is a law called "Truth in Assessment," Act 213, P.A. 1981, which I supported, and is designed to make taxpayers aware that when there should be an increase in their assessment levels, they will be given written advance notice, early in the year, rather than to receive the shock of increase in December when they receive their property tax bill. The new Act also requires the assessing unit of government to roll back their millage rate an amount to correspond with general assessment increases.

The new reports, just recently received have made people aware and they are now asking questions of their local officials as to the property tax assessments.

Secondly, we passed a new Act called "Truth in Taxation," Act 5, P.A. 1982, (a measure that I supported strongly). This Act requires all local units of government, cities, townships, school boards, community colleges and the county to roll back millage levels when there is a general assessment increase and also hold public hearings and inform the citizens when the local unit of government desires to recover some of the rollback. Any increase then taken would have to be approved in open meetings by public vote.

For years Lansing has been given blame whenever a general assessment increase resulted in a tax increase. It was seldom explained to the property owner that a millage rollback could have been accomplished to keep taxes level. Now, I am very pleased to see that the governing body of Huron Township of whom I have had conversation, the City of Romulus (where I reside) are circulating petitions to put a freeze on the property taxes. Although this, too, is only a piecemeal attempt to try to correct, it could be a step in the right direction.

Moreover, a number here in Lansing are moving to discharge the House Committee on Taxation from further consideration of Senate Bill 73, which if reelected the property taxes at a reasonable level and prevents the frequent increasing of valuation. I am wholeheartedly supporting this action. Hopefully the petition drive can become a statewide drive and amend the State Constitution which would be, in my opinion, the best thing to do.

The Gift of Debt

I offer you vision without real fear
A place you can build on for all of your years
The breadth of a land that is treasured like none so the cost to each man be that they shall be one

And the red of our flag stands for courage you show
When you're so white with rage that anything goes
For the feeling you have goes beyond the word blue
Yet I know for this country your pledge still rings true

I'll salute you with victory if you'll only be brave
As a country is dangered when they try to enslave
Keep aware of the things that are all in your sight
Never losing your spirit, now here comes the fight

Thru your vigils of care for the people of this land Encumbered with change as they struggle to stand
Their balance of movements take time this is true
But this country's not helpless, it just missed a cue.

Reflections

Like sands in a desert

HEMET, Calif. — I am back in this gem in the desert, where I left part of my heart longing last year, but the recipient of those heart longings have hidden their faces in rolling dark clouds, and tears have flowed down their sides, and I am left feeling lonely and abandoned.

I thought those mountains would react with the same joy I felt as the plane dipped and winged its way over their tops, finally settling like a big, silver bird at their feet.

But it is still beautiful and I know that one day the sun will penetrate through those clouds and Mt. San Jacinto will greet me with the misty joy that seems to be its makeup.

As I sit in this room looking out over the street it seems impossible that a year has flown by. And today, the day I am writing this, is the anniversary of our saying goodbye to my brother-in-law who had fought such a valiant fight.

I am here this year because my sister is fighting the same fight, but she rushes out to meet the enemy, her hair glowing about her beautiful face, her colorful clothes emphasizing her tall, slender body, and only in the depths of her great, dark eyes, does one read the occasional uncertainty of her future.

Each Monday she drives over the mountain for the cancer fighting, life-giving chemotherapy, and each Tuesday she fights nausea and depression, but by Wednesday morning she has conquered and risen to the challenge.

I am here to help her through those Mondays and Tuesdays, and the nightmares of the nights, and the poignancy and grief of this first anniversary.

There isn't much one can do, except be here.

On Wednesday we will go out to lunch and her friends will rush to join us, and there will be lots of food, lots of laughter, lots of hugging and giving of affection, and then we will come back to this beautiful home, where she will carefully remake her face, don an elegant, colorful lounger, cover her feet with slim gold slippers, turn on the TV, curl up on the huge sofa, and fall asleep.

The sleep will do her good. I watch her as she sleeps. My little sister who is only thirteen months younger than I, and I hear our mother's voice saying, "Take care of little sister, Joyce," and I cry out to mother, wherever she is, "I'm trying, Mama, I'm trying."

As I watch, her eyes pop open...those big, brown eyes, and she looks at me and smiles that sweet little-girl smile. "Did I snore?" she asks. She has a horror of snoring.

"No," I say.

She stretches and raises her arms above her head, the bright nail polish glowing her long, slender fingers, the diamonds flashing and then, her eyes dancing, she grins.

"What is there to eat?" she said, on the contrary, I was born early. That killed that.

I read where a psychiatrist once suggested that the reason Marilyn Monroe was always late was because she was so shy she actually dreaded having to appear before the public, and so put it off until the event was either over with or she was threatened with something dire to get her there.

After I thought about the possibility of getting such a shy person to appear in public (when she did appear) with fewer clothes on than I wear getting out of the tub, I decided the shy part was as good an excuse as any.

Hostess: Good Lord, aren't you ready yet? I've read "War and Peace" and two "Reader's Digests" waiting for you.

Me: Try to understand that while I would love to have been ready on time, my basic shyness kept me from appearing at the appointed time. It is an affliction only those afflicted with can possibly comprehend.

See, I would talk like that to throw him off guard — to keep him from delving any deeper, where he might find out that the reason I had kept him waiting through "War and Peace" and two "Reader's Digests" was because the dress I was going to wear went away with the Goodwill truck last summer and I just remembered. Then, the other dress I was going to wear, I just remembered, had never had the hem put in after I made it three years ago.

Then, after I put the hem in, I tried it on and found it had shrunk two sizes — probably from sitting in the closet for three years.

Then, the only other dress I had didn't look good with the shoes I was going to wear, so I had to look in another Goodwill bag for the other pair of shoes that looked good with that dress.

Then, I remembered that the reason the shoes were in the Goodwill bag was because they were too tight and they squeaked when I walked.

I wore them anyway.

Procrastinators suffer a lot of pain for their actions. People who don't procrastinate like that. They spend a lot of time (time saved by not procrastinating, wouldn't you know?) snickering and saying, "I told you so." They also spend a lot of time generating helpful little hints on how to get organized: "As you put things into the Goodwill bag, you should be making a list of each item as it goes in. Not only is it useful at income tax time, it also helps you remember what you no longer have."

Maybe after I've finished my Spring cleaning... which I'm going to get to as soon as it's warm enough to open the windows...

Or three weeks before Christmas...

Whichever comes first.

Pains of putting it off

As procrastinators go, I am probably one of the all-time great pros. If something can be put off, I will be first in line to put it off. It isn't that I like to put things off — not at all. Usually I wind up hating having put things off. It means I have to work all the harder doing whatever it was I put off at breakneck speed in order to catch up.

My motto — like it or not — seems to be, "Put off until later what you can't put off forever."

I don't know why I put things off.

I don't know why I put off getting ready to go somewhere until the last possible moment. (Though I have a clue — see below: "Marilyn Monroe".)

I don't know why I don't think about what's for supper until an hour before supper time.

I don't know why I put off spring cleaning until it becomes summer cleaning, which I put off until fall, when it's cooler, which I put off until Christmas, when it's more fun besides being absolutely essential, which I put off until Spring again, when I can open the windows, which I put off until summer when it's warmer.

I asked my mother once if the reason I was a procrastinator was because I was born late. She

Regional cage playoffsS' Western detours pesky Salem

The Prospectors of Detroit Southwestern found gold among the Rocks last week as they defeated Plymouth Salem on their way to the regional championship at Ypsilanti High School.

Led by 6-foot-5 All-Stater Antoine Joubert, Southwestern extracted a hard-fought 63-54 victory from the Rocks of Coach Fred Thomann Thursday before winning the Class A regional championship Saturday night with a thrilling 70-65 triumph over the host Ypsilanti Braves.

Playoffs begin in Over 30 hockey

Round I of the Wayne-Westland Over 30 hockey playoffs got underway last week at a torrid pace.

And Etronic, Tastee Freez, Jake's Lounge, All Sorts Sports and Johnson Carbonic survived the initial tests.

Etronic pulled off an overtime victory over Futurama Engineering, 3-2, as Jerry Robertson scored the game winner just nine seconds into overtime.

Robertson also scored Etronic's first goal.

Al Pulk accounted for the victor's second goal which sent the game into the overtime. Perry Toepper picked up two assists while Nick Paule, Tom DiLaura, Jim Drewry and Jim Thomas finished with one assist.

Futurama had a 2-0 lead with John McFaddin and Dave Zielinski both scoring unassisted goals.

Tastee Freeze held off a determined Little Bill's Trophies team to card a 5-2 win. The Freezers took an early lead with George Motts tipping in the puck. Dave Frankling then rattled the net for a hat trick with Bob Eggers scoring an empty-net goal to clinch the victory. Eggers also picked up one assist. Bob Wood finished with three assists while Paul Mayworm and Dave Cherry received one assist.

Little Bill's got on the scoreboard when Jay Middaugh and Gene Tauranainen tallied for a goal apiece. Middaugh got the assist on Tauranainen's goal. Jerry Bular picked up the assist on Middaugh's goal.

Kim Cesarz finds niche at Ferris

Kim Cesarz, a freshman from John Glenn High School, has found a niche at Ferris State College this season as a reserve forward on the women's basketball team.

The 5-foot-10 Cesarz was used off the bench to provide some extra rebounding and scoring strength on the inside.

Toward the end of the year, she averaged upwards to 10 rebounds per game and was occasionally called on for starting duty.

She saw action in all 25 games, accounting for 3.9 points and 4.7 rebounds an outing.

Cesarz should figure prominently in the future success of Bulldog basketball when her sophomore season rolls around next winter.

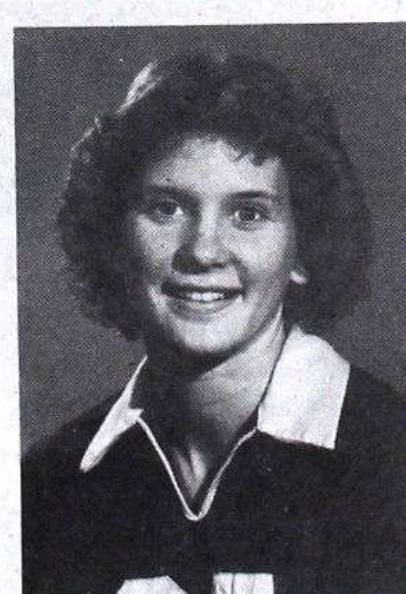

All-Area is next

The Associated Newspapers, in cooperation with the high school coaches, will select its annual "All-Area" winter sports stars next week.

Leading the parade of outstanding prep athletes will be the All-Area wrestling team and its "Coach of the Year." During subsequent weeks, the top prep swimmers and basketball players along with their coaches, will make their appearances on these pages.

Players representing most of the area high schools have been selected by the coaches and the ANP sports staff to be honored.

Also, the ANP sports staff wishes to urge athletic directors in the area who have not mailed in their spring sports schedules to do so as soon as possible. Please include on the schedules names and telephone numbers of the coaches.

against Joubert and his talented teammates.

"I'm immensely disappointed," Thomann said in the quietness of the locker room to the assembled reporters. "We made a run at them but couldn't quite overtake them."

Thomann was referring to Salem's 50-36 deficit with 3:01 left to play in the third period. The never-say-die Rocks put on a furious rally, outscoring the Detroiters 18-8 and cutting the Prospectors' margin to 58-54 on Mike McBride's two free throws with 1:21 left in the game. With 4,000 fans roaring in the jam-packed Ypsi gym, Salem caused a turnover and had a chance to cut the deficit to just two points. However, guard Glen Medalle, who played a hustling game all the way, fired up a 12-footer and the ball bounced off the inside of the rim and Southwestern rebounded and sank five free throws as Salem deliberately fouled to get the ball.

It was an exciting finish to a game that saw Salem take an early lead, fall behind when Joubert led a scoring burst in the middle two periods, and then put on a furious finish that nearly tied the game.

Joubert was all over the court, jumping center, bringing the ball upcourt, playing center in the Prospectors' defense under the basket and doing whatever was necessary to win the game. Salem's 6-8 center Norm Haygood gave the Rocks an early 4-2 lead on two smooth moes to the basket, but Joubert rebounded his own shot to tie the game and then gave the Detroiters a 9-6 lead on a 3-point play.

The hustling Rock team pulled ahead 16-12 after one quarter but an 18-9 second period advantage by Southwestern proved to be the ultimate difference in the game. With Joubert handling the ball most of the time, the Prospectors dominated the second quarter, causing 11 Salem turnovers with its full-court defensive pressure.

Joubert canned two jumpers and six consecutive free throws to lift his team into a 30-25 halftime lead as Salem missed many opportunities to score. The classy junior hit his first four jumpers of the third quarter to make it 40-27 and the Prospectors continued to pull away, ultimately moving to a 50-36 edge before Salem made its futile comeback bid for victory.

"We couldn't play the last two minutes of the game," Thomann said. "We didn't have the same opportunity to play as they did." The veteran coach, who is recognized as one of the finest in the state, did not want to elaborate, saying to reporters, "You saw the game, you can judge for yourselves."

Many in the standing room only crowd felt the officials let Joubert get away with many "pushing off" fouls with his forearm and several times called blocking fouls on the defensive player when it could have just as easily gone the other way. The officials did not call many fouls at all in the last quarter, even though there was quite a bit of contact.

Johnson Carbonic scored three times in the final period to record a 5-2 victory over Family Heating.

Ron Johnson tallied twice and picked up one assist; Dale Fawkes and Phil Cerne scored one goal and received one assist while Bob Murray accounted for one goal. Finishing with one assist were Arnie McClellan, Phil McDonald, Errol Pulk and Mike Villemure.

Family Heating scored once in the first and second periods as Ray Erickson and Joel Layne put the puck in the net. Drawing one assist were Jack Bockstanz, Norm Beasley and Dennis Darnell.

Playoff action is slated to continue Sunday at the Wayne Arena.

Over 30 hockey champs

It may have been the winter of discontent for many, but for members of the Tastee-Freez over 30 Hockey club it was also a championship season. The skaters captured the Berrington Division of the Wayne-Westland league thanks to Dan Thomas (first row from left), Dave Cher-

goal while Art Cazabon and Ray LaCornu picked up the assists.

All Sorts Sports had the pressure on Benny's Pizzeria and carded a 6-2 win. Ron Wojewski had the "hot stick" for All Sorts, scoring three goals and picking up one assist. John Clearwood tallied twice and received one assist while Craig Averill netted the puck once and picked up three assists.

John Mendler finished with three assists with Jim McClure and Ken Wallace picking up one assist.

Benny's scored its two goals in the third period with Rod Dittmar and Chuck Heebsh accounting for the tallies. Dave Fishwick drew an assist on Heebsh's goal.

Playoff action is slated to continue Sunday at the Wayne Arena.

Station 885 -- dining near the tracks

By DENNIS NIEMIEC
Feature Editor

Bill Waun, owner of Plymouth's newest pub, Station 885, pointed out his office window to the three sets of railroad tracks that split in different directions to the north.

"One set of tracks heads to Grand Rapids, another to Saginaw and the other to Toledo," he explained. "The center of the tracks is only 30 feet away from this building."

Waun's interest in the railroad system is understandable. Station 885 resembles a railroad depot with a front-row view of the freight trains that pass by daily on the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad. Inside a railroad motif, complete with signs and the appropriately designed menu (The Brakeman, Conductor and Engineer are just a few of the sandwiches), greets the customer.

Located in Plymouth's Old Village area on 885 Starkweather, Station 885 is definitely not on the wrong side of the tracks judging from this pub's popularity. Since opening last December the pub has consistently attracted a large following of businessmen, families and single patrons.

Why do they keep coming back? And why are residents from outside the Plymouth community beginning to patronize this establishment? Waun isn't sure he has the answers.

"We wanted to casually open up last December," the owner recalled. "So all we did to promote the place was put up a 'Now Open' sign — that same day we had a full house at lunch."

Little wonder, judging from what we found on our first visit to Station 885 last Thursday afternoon. This is obviously a conversation bar, a spot for everyone to unwind whether it be midday or the evening.

However, unlike many pubs, Station 885 offers quite an impressive menu, including more than 10 sandwiches priced at $3.25 (the meat is plentiful... seven ounces of corn beef on the Pullman, 1/4 pound of Kielbasa on the Depot and 1/2 pound hamburger on the Cattle Car, for example).

On this day the specials featured smelt with fries ($2.25), beef stew and rolls, ($1.95), shrimp with fries ($4.25) and chicken wing dings with fries ($3.95). Soup of the day costs $1.

Liquor and beer prices are reasonable (75 cents for beer and wine) with a "double track" offering two drinks for the price of one weekdays from 3 to 7 p.m. For the adventuresome, try the Derailment, a combination of rum and pineapple juice mixed in a blender with two types of liquor.

The interior reflects the massive cleaning and redecorating project which the Waun family undertook last year after purchasing the building from the C & O Railroad. The months of cleaning, painting, wallpapering and even pulling of 400 feet of railroad tracks were not wasted, having produced an attractive setting for good food and drink.

Everything from the spiral staircase that leads to the second floor meeting room to the railroad signs and paraphernalia comes together perfectly. Station 885 remains a "theme" pub and the railroad theme fits in nicely, conspicuous yet not overbearing.

"Everyone is fascinated by a railroad," said Waun, who also works as a manufacturer's representative in the auto industry. "From every window you can see the track and watch the freight being hauled. This building used to be the freight house for the railroad until they moved in the early 1970s.

"This is my first restaurant and I've really enjoyed the experience. I've made a good living and now I feel like I'm putting my money back into Michigan and helping create some jobs."

Station 885, which seats 110, has been billed as a family pub and the Waun family has taken the family aspect literally.

Bill's wife Lorraine, who owns Lorraine's Dolls in Plymouth's Old Village, helps manage the Station while their son Bill, 15, works as a cook and daughter Michelle, 13, as a hostess when not in school.

Situated north of Main Street — some 13 miles from downtown Wayne — Station 885 remains open for business from 11 a.m. till midnight on Mondays thru Wednesdays and from 11 a.m. till 2 a.m. on Thursdays thru Saturdays and is closed Sundays. Food from the grill is served until 11 p.m. with a cold sandwich menu available after 11 p.m.

High chairs and booster chairs are provided for the children.

Belleville church to show 'The Last Epidemic'

Physicians ask for freeze on nuclear stockpiles

Is there a man, woman or child who doesn't fear nuclear war?

To prevent it, next Sunday, March 28, has been designated as the beginning of a petition drive throughout Michigan to put a "nuclear freeze" on world-wide nuclear arsenals.

Belleville United Methodist Church, 417 Charles Street, Belleville, will show the film "The Last Epidemic," Sun., March 28 beginning at 7 p.m. It is produced and sponsored by concerned physicians on the medical consequences of nuclear weapons and nuclear war.

The public is invited. There is no admission charge.

From March 28 until May 1 petitions are being circulated throughout Michigan for putting the Nuclear Weapons Freeze Issue on the ballot in November.

The proposal is for a mutual U.S.-Soviet Nuclear Weapon Freeze.

If the proposal passes in November, it would require certain state officials to send written communications to the President, Secretaries of State and Defense and all members of Congress.

Already "Freeze Resolutions" have been passed in the legislatures of Massachusetts, New York and Oregon.

Many other states are in the process of doing either that or are working on citizen initiatives. In Michigan, 280,000 signatures are needed for the resolution to be put on the ballot.

The "Freeze Resolution" has been endorsed by the 14th World Methodist Council as well as other religious and civic groups. Belleville U.M.C. will have a display table of literature telling more about the freeze proposal as well as petitions to sign.

The text of the proposed moratorium would read as follows: "The people of the State of Michigan urge that the government of the United States immediately propose to the government of the Soviet Union a Mutual Nuclear Weapons Freeze, whereby both countries agree to halt immediately the testing, production, and further deployment of all nuclear weapons, missiles and delivery systems in a way that can be checked and verified by both sides, and that Congress transfer the funds which would have been used for those purposes to civilian use."

County suffering with new program

Children and Foster Care (ADF-FC) and Medicaid should be the sole responsibility of the federal government where federal revenues are already pledged. Wayne County, which is as large as 30 of the states and perhaps the hardest hit economically, is unable to provide the necessary funding required of these programs and should not be expected to," he stressed.

"A 25 percent reduction in federal funding will cost the county an additional $3.8 million this year in order to keep ADC-FC at its present level and the county is already paying $8 million to the state as its share of the program," Korney pointed out. "If this is the forerunner of federalism as envisioned by Reagan, then we can't afford it," he asserted.

As for General Revenue Sharing — The general revenue sharing program formula allocation system and requirements should be used as a representative model in determining fund distribution program.

"Basic and integral administrative functions of state and local government should remain or become the sole province of those levels of government. State and local government flexibility should not be impaired or circumscribed by federal restrictions or regulations in these basic policies and functions," Korney concluded.
